

Naval Supply Corps School Offers New Financial Management Course

Senior military and government civilian personnel can now enhance their business skills through a new financial management course offered at the Navy Supply Corps School (NSCS) in Athens, Ga.

The Advanced Management Program (AMP) will provide managerial and financial instruction on Navy business practices, keeping Navy personnel at the forefront of the commercial world while avoiding commercial prices.

The AMP offers senior managers an opportunity to gain graduate-level education in three core areas: cost management, organizational management and operations management. The three-week course allows participants to assess their abilities and knowledge in these core areas, offers a broadened business perspective and develops a skill set for use in the workplace.

Taught by leading professors in their respective fields, Navy business professionals will gain valuable insights into current civilian business practices and innovations through AMP, which they can in turn, incorporate into the Navy.

The course is open to commanders, lieutenant commanders selected to the rank of commander, and government civil servants at the GS-13 and 14 grade levels.
